Title: “A Lock Picking Lesson for the Curious” with Bill Ragsdale

At this event you will join a select circle: Those who can open locks without keys. This skill is practiced by locksmiths, magicians, law enforcement, private detectives and at hobbyist competitions. It never used by criminals as it is time consuming, visible and uncertain.

The event features introductory videos, a trivia game, a handcuff game and the attacks on four locks plus an award ceremony.

Participants will use professional lock picks, and four locks of increasing difficulty. Participants will have the option of purchasing a take home kit including the professional set of lock picks, a clear practice lock, four pages of notes and an instructional CD. At the end of the two-hour class you will know how to open all desk locks, most padlocks and many door locks.

Our instructor, Bill Ragsdale, apprenticed with a travelling locksmith serving rural areas of central California from a mobile lock shop. He then worked several years in Las Vegas at the firm manufacturing high security lock products to the gambling industry. He then formed a company supplying electronic door controls and ran it for the next twenty-five years.
